The European Union or EU is an international organisation of European states, established by the Treaty on European Union (the Maastricht treaty). Its current legal base is the Treaty of Nice which entered into force on February 1, 2003.

The total area (in Europe, South America and Africa) of the 25 member states (2004) of the European Union is 3,892,685 km². The EU have approximately 453 million citizens. The third largest in the world after India and China.

The important government cities of the E.U. cities are:

- Brussels: Council, Commission, Economic and Social Committee, Committee of the
- Strasbourg: Parliament
- Luxembourg: Council, Court of Justice, Court of Auditors, Investment Bank Frankfurt am Main: Central Bank

The flag of the Union shall be a circle of twelve golden stars on a blue background. The 12 symbolize the harmony and perfection and have nothing to do with the count of the members.

The motto of the Union shall be: United in diversity (in varietate concordia).

The currency of the Union shall is the Euro.

The European anthem is based on the final movement of Ludwig van Beethoven's ninth symphony, which is based on Friedrich Schiller's "Ode an die Freude (Ode to Joy)".

By Bennet Schulte (721625) K2 TFH, Berlin 2004 - UIN:59520994 www.benneten.de tfh@benneten.de

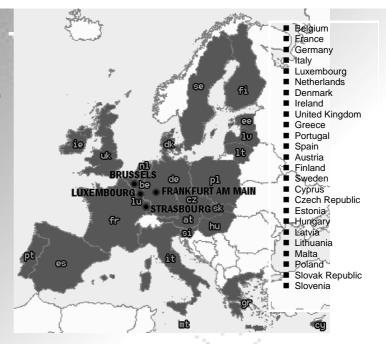

The European Union or EU is an international organisation of European states, established by the Treaty on European Union (the Maastricht treaty). Its current legal base is the Treaty of Nice which entered into force on February 1, 2003.

The total area (in Europe, South America and Africa) of the 25 member states (2004) of the European Union is 3,892,685 km². The EU have approximately 453 million citizens. The third largest in the world after India and China.

The important government cities of the E.U. cities are:

- Brussels: Council, Commission, Economic and Social Committee, Committee of the
- Strasbourg: Parliament
- Luxembourg: Council, Court of Justice, Court of Auditors, Investment Bank
- Frankfurt am Main: Central Bank

The flag of the Union shall be a circle of twelve golden stars on a blue background. The 12 symbolize the harmony and perfection and have nothing to do with the count of the members.

The motto of the Union shall be: United in diversity (in varietate concordia).

The currency of the Union shall is the Euro.

The European anthem is based on the final movement of Ludwig van Beethoven's ninth symphony, which is based on Friedrich Schiller's "Ode an die Freude (Ode to Joy)".

By Bennet Schulte (721625) K2 TFH, Berlin 2004 - UIN:59520994 www.benneten.de tfh@benneten.de